I LOVE BRIDGMAN BECAUSE...

It's hard to take away, with a close city, local parks, etc. and small, cute, some of your more available

BRIDGMAN
A small, friendly, friendly little town in the heart of the mountains.
What to look for the responsibility of the region?

I ALSO THINK BRIDGMAN NEEDS MORE OF THIS...

ice cream shop live construction work and events bakery and coffee shop

AND LESS OF THIS...

short-term rentals

A screenshot of a web browser displaying the Resilient Michigan website. The browser's address bar shows the URL "www.resilientmichigan.org/bridgman.asp". The website header includes the "Resilient MICHIGAN" logo and navigation links for "ABOUT", "COMMUNITIES", "VIDEO SERIES", and "HANDBOOK". On the left side, there is a vertical menu with four items: "Public Meetings and Events", "Project Information", "Project Timeline", and "Contact Us". The main content area features a large photograph of a lake shoreline with trees and a sandy beach. Below the photo, the breadcrumb trail reads "Home > Communities > Bridgman", followed by the heading "RESILIENT BRIDGMAN" and a paragraph of introductory text.

RESILIENT BRIDGMAN

Located 80 miles east of Chicago on the shores of Lake Michigan, Bridgman is one of several Michigan "beach towns" that are working to understand and address how rapid economic changes and increasing climate variability will be felt by the unique communities that lay along the Great Lakes shoreline.
